#2. ELDIS

The screenshot shows the ELDIS website interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with links for Home, What's New, Topics, Country Profiles, Events & Announcements, Jobs, and Community. Below this is a breadcrumb trail: You are in: Home > Topics > Resource Guides > Health > Sexual and reproductive health.

The main content area is divided into three columns:

- Left Column (Navigation): A vertical list of categories including Health, Sexual and reproductive health (highlighted), Access to services, Health systems and services, Programmes and aid delivery, Rights and advocacy, Social and cultural issues, Trends and indicators, Universal access to sexual and reproductive health services, and a section for Key websites with links to IPPF, Realising Rights Consortium, Resources for HIV/AIDS and Sexual and Reproductive Health Integration, Family Health International (FHI), and WHO Reproductive Health.
- Middle Column (Article Preview):
 - Section-Header: Sexual and reproductive health
 - Title: Long-acting and permanent methods: addressing unmet need for family planning in Africa
 - Summary: The benefity of long acting permanent methods of contraception
 - Authors: ; Family Health International
 - Publisher: Family Health International , 2007
 - Action: Full text of document
 - Text: This new evidence-based advocacy package produced by Family Health International intends to inform policy-makers, program managers, and donors on the benefits of and approaches for introducing or revitalising long-acting and permanent methods (LAPMs) within national reproductive health and family planning programs in Africa. Despite their many advantages, LAPMs are the least accessible and least used methods of family planning in sub-Saharan Africa. This class of modern contraceptive methods is comprised of four highly effective methods for delaying, spacing, or limiting births: the intrauterine device (IUD), contraceptive implants, vasectomy, and female sterilization.
 - Text: The advocacy package contains eight briefs. These briefs describe the current status of family planning in Africa, including evidence that suggests a substantial unmet need for LAPMs in the region. They address the unique advantages of LAPMs and benefits to individuals, couples and national programs. They also provide examples of several nilot and national efforts that have incorporated both traditional and

The screenshot shows the USAID Documents website. At the top is a navigation bar with links: ABOUT USAID, OUR WORK, LOCATIONS, POLICY, PUBLIC AFFAIRS, BUSINESS, CAREERS, and HOME. Below this is the USAID logo with the tagline 'FROM THE AMERICAN PEOPLE' and the word 'DOCUMENTS'. A search bar is present with 'All Subjects' and 'Any Country' dropdowns and a 'GO' button. To the right is a 'Quick Search' section with a search input field and a 'GO' button. Below the search bar is a 'Welcome' section with the heading 'Welcome to the USAID Development Experience Clearinghouse'. The text describes the DEC as the largest online resource for USAID-funded technical and program documentation, with over 52,400 documents available for electronic download. It mentions the Development Experience System (DEXS) and the DEC Express e-publication. To the right of the welcome text is a vertical list of search options: Advanced Search, Thesaurus Search, Past Projects Search, Special Collections, PDF Full Text Search, Top 10 Reports, Search Help, and Add DEXS Search Engine Plugin. Below this is a 'DEC Services' section with links: Order Reports, Submit Reports, About the DEC, Items of Interest, Contact Us, and DEC Home. At the bottom right is a 'DEC Express' section with a 'Subscribe' link. On the left side, under 'Recently Added Documents', there are two entries for April 10, 2008, both related to a middle school support project in Haiti.
